Our child has embarked on a journey of intellectual growth that deserves celebration. As parents, we feel happy to see how much effort our child puts into her studies, which is truly admirable. Our child navigates the intricate pathways of NCERT textbooks and consistently practices with Previous Year and Sample Papers. The skill to engage in self-study extends beyond the classroom and exams. Every moment spent in self-study is a deliberate investment in her academic growth. I am grateful to team PGGS for guiding and supporting my child so well.
